MAIL COMMUNICATION WITH THE NORTHERN DISTRICTS.

Complaints still continue to reach us from many quarters of the manner in which the northern settlements are treated by the Government in regard to postal matters. After exciting the hope that the state of things which characterized past years would certainly be remedied this season, the Govern ment have suffered more than half the year to pass by without making the necessary exertion to afford those who have taken up their residence on the coast north of us regular mail communication. Great boasts were made last fall of the transformation that was to take place this summer in regard to these matters; and as if to give them the appearance of being something more than mere talk, a vote was asked and obtained from the last House of Assembly just before it expired-so anxious were the Governmen to expedite matters-authorizing the sum of fifteen hundred dollars to be granted for mail communication by steamer with Comax Nanaimo, and the other settlements on the east coast. Following this was the issuing of an advertisement by the Postmaster Gen. eral calling for tenders for carrying the mails between the above places.

To this no satisfactory response was obtained, and them atter rested. This last move was made in the beginning of April, and from that day to this the public have been compelled to jog along in the old style. Are we to attribute this culpable inactivity or, the part of the Government in reference to a matter of such pressing importance to incapacity or to indifference to the public interest? It must be one or the other, and perhaps both. And yet we hear some people say there is no necessity for responsible government in this Colony. If it is not required here to Six fine Saddle and Draught HORSES, sincere thanks, and to the trade he produce some change for the better, there is no necessity for it anywhere. As long as things are suffered to remain as they are now we need not expect to make any progress in settling up our waste lands. Men are not going to bury themselves in the woods of Vancouver Island without the possibility of PLASKETT & GLYDE, where also apply with their friends or business correspondents. when the can go clsewhere and get as good land as we can give them, and have the advantage of regular postal communication be-What other government except our own would suffer a place of such population and so near to us as Nanaimo, to depend for its letters and papers upon the courtesy of chance coasting craft.

It is time this state of things were put ar end to. If we cannot have mail communica tion by steamer, let us have it on horse-back by land. The latter will be cheaper and quite as effectual, perhaps even more so, as through it the interior settlers may be better reached. If a little attention were bestowed on the road between here and Nanaimo, more particularly to a few bridges, the trip could even now be performed on horse-back in a day If necessary. The work should be completed at once, and the mail contract given out to The work should be completed be put in operation between here and Nanaimo, with provision for the extension to Comax as soon as the remainder of the trail is ready. OPEN SESSIONS FOR THE LEGIS-LATIVE COUNCIL.

Strangers, and particularly people from the old country and British colonies, must no doubt feel somewhat surprised upon arriving here to find how badly we have imitated in our government the model set before us at home. We have a piece of machinery resembling in some particulars its prototype but in many others, it is sadly wanting. We shall not stop to discuss the many shortcom ings that disfigure the structure by which occiety in these colonies is controlled and regulated. There is one in particular, how ever, which we hope will no longer exist, now that an Executive Council has been constituted, separate and distinct from the Legislative Council, and that is the absurd fashion of the latter body sitting with closed AT THE PIONEER VARIETY STORE, WRITING DESKS. doors. Were we living some three or four hundred years back, under one of the worst kind of Enropean oligarchies, we would naturally be prepared for that sort of thing, but to think of it existing in the nineteenth century, in a dependency of one of the most civilized and advanced nations of the globe, would seem utterly impossible. Yet so it is-extremes meet. The relic of a barbarous age flourishes tunity for I must have the room, side by side with the most progressive ideas One of the greatest safeguards the public can have that those who manage the affairs At the above Store will be found an assortment of the country will conduct themselves as WINE GLASSES, they ought, consists in the fact that a man generally desires to stand well with his fellow men. He must be a bold man indeed WATER HOUTILES, who will willingly incur the contempt or hatred of the rest of mankind. Public officers are often swayed by passion or interest to stray from the right path, but if they do so they do not wish to stand alone. They must have support and in some sort sympathy to sustain them. To stand forward a conspicuous mark for the just censure of an Anda Sentent of Hardware. conspicuous mark for the just censure of an And a General Assortment of Hardware. offended and injured people will be desired by not even a despot. Public criticism therefore is one of the most effectual checks that can be exerted upon the conduct of men occupying an office or position which they do not owe to the votes of the people. To be just, this criticism must be discriminative. Each one must bear his own share of prais or blame. That this may be done the actions of each must come before the publie. This can only be done as respecte deliberative assemblies, where discussion and voting takes place the same as in the House of Lords in England. Where everything is carried on with close doors the innocent are condemned with the guilty. Unprincipled men can then play their games with impunity, and the greatest public wrongs be perpetrated under the mask of legislation. Men of honest purpose have no need of concealment. They do what they think is right, and are not ashamed to own it The good and the true never require to cowe from the public gaze. Their actions are done in open day, while the sneaking crim inal pursues his unhallowed calling under the secreey of darkness. Let us therefore have no more secret sessions of the Legislative

All true and loyal citizens are cautioned to be on the alert, and keep strict watch on the movements of the "far famed yaller Frigate" and her "bold and intrepid" commander, and in the event of an action between the schooner and the Eliza Anderson, to charter the Duke of Yerk's canoe, and carry the howitger out into the but to exist the Gentlemen.—Your esteemed and highly gratifying letter of to day was received by me. I beg to assure you, however, that you are apparently laboring under a mistake in all the port of victoria and other places. Perhaps some of the communicants are rich claim holders or merat present lying at anchor off Point Ringold, at the entrance to your harbor. Your letter, gentlemen, would seem to indicate that you are under the impression that the schooner Elizabeth, which vessel I have the honor to command, is now lying at her present anthe steamer Anderson due here and soize the steamer Anderson due here from up the Sound, and that from the belligerent appearance of my vessel, the Anderson fearing a capture, did not come in as was expected but passed by during the night.

Gentlemen, you have much mistaken both invielf and vessel, if you suppose that she is cause of terror to steamers plying a legal trade, or that I am in secret trade, or that I am in secret combination with the Collector of Customs to injure the commerce of this port. Instead of being an annoyance to you the Elizabeth has been and vill be a means of protection and defence. When the northern Indians attacked Smith's Island, and families about Port Townsend | meeting Island, and lamilies about Port Townsend were ready to fly elsewhere for succor, the doors of the ample cabins of the Elizabeth were thrown open to all, and if the generous offer was not accepted, it was not gentlemen, here we are cartinial law fellows of the bases. because as certain low fellows o the base sort remarked, that she smelt bad, but because Capt, Fowler would not charter her.

ON THE RAIL .- As the midday Worcester ON This RAIL.—As the midday Worcester train was about leaving the depot, a man of the Johnsonian type of manners, entered one of the ears, and gruffly requested that two young ladies occupying separate seats should not together, that he and his friend might enjoy a tote-a-tete on the other seat.

"But," said one of the damsels, blushing, "this seat is engaged."

"Engaged is it "presently responded the

"Engaged, is it! brusquely responded the man, "who engaged it?"

"A young man!" said the conscious mablen.

"A young man, eh; where's his baggage !" persisted Ursa Major. "I'm his baggage, Old Hateful," replied the demure damsel, pursing her rosy lips into the prettiest pout.

"Old Hateful" subsided; the young man eame in and extended an arm protectingly, almost caressingly around his "baggage," and the conductor started the train.

A Stort of Red Tape.—A laughable circumstance occurred in the House of Commons last week, when the Soliciter-General rose to withdraw one of the few Ministerial measures of the session—the Bill to provide for the registration of Assurances (or Titledeeds) in Ireland. The hon. and learned gentleman had dropped a piece of red tape into his hat, so that when he stood up to address the House it was curled upon the top of his head, with one end gracefully depending over his right shoulder. The occupants of the Iront Opposition bench indulged in a we'l-bred giggle. The attention of the hon. gentlemen below the gangway was soon directed to the circumstance, and the giggle exploded into a loud laugh. The Solicitor-General then, for the first time, became conscious of the presence of the red tape on his head, and hastily threw it behind him, when it fell into the hat of the Right Hon. Fredmeasures of the session-the Bill to provide heed, and hastily threw it behind him, when it fell into the hat of the Right Hon. Frederick Peel, the Secretary of the Treasury, who is himself the very incarnation of red tape. This unlucky, but most appropriate incident, evoked a fresh roar of laughter from the house, which upset the gravity even of the Solicitor-General himself, who made matters infinitely were by turning round to matters infinitely worse by turning round to the Right Hon. Frederick Peel, and exclaim-"I beg your pardon."-News of the

STARVATION THEORY .-- A correspondent Grant's army, thus explodes the starvation theory at the South: As to there being anything like scarcity of food here, hoot at the idea. One planter will plow under two hundres. dred acres of last year's ungathered corn to plant cotton. The only reason that you hear the cry is that Virginia and the Carolinas, and Tennessee have been run over by marching armies, who have eaten them out, and the railways are kept busy transporting troops and munitions of war, having no time to attend to the earrying of provisions. It costs nothing hardly to march through this country; mules and horses in plenty, cattle in abundance, and equal to those that Joseph
